On Board the Train.

R. R. Sunday, Sept. 16, 77. Editor Herpld:

The passengers taking the train a Beaver Dam to day, on our way to the Presidential reception at Louisville desire through your columns to return thanks to Col. J. M. Doom, agent at crescuces. But, perhaps, it would be Beaver Dam, for procuring an extra, more satisfactory to some to have an exnice, and comfortable car for us, by pression of the managers upon this subvery comfortably situated. Our upan imous verdict is that he is the "right man in the right place:
